It gives me immense pleasure to learn that the National Board of Examinations will be hosting its 20th Convocation on 24th December 2019.

I take this opportunity to express my warmest appreciation and hearty congratulations to all the awardees. This is indeed a day of great celebration for all aspiring specialist doctors; a day that marks the culmination of their hard work and dedication - a defining moment in each of their lives, as a promising career awaits them. Not a single point along the continuum of life experience culminate in a life driven by a self-sacrificing desire to contribute to the well-being of humanity.

There is always a dire need for dedicated and trained experts who would be role models, and contribute to the quality of healthcare delivery for all citizens of India, with the objective of continually raising the standards of clinical excellence. I am confident that NBE graduates will be a great asset to the nation, not only in ensuring quality care to patients, but also in making India a Global Healthcare Destination.

I wish the Convocation all success and greatly appreciate the efforts of the organisers of the National Board of Examinations - a premiere institution of the country in the field of Post-Graduate Education.
