MESSAGE

I am pleased to learn that National Board of Examinations, Ministry of Health and Family Welfare is conducting the 20th Convocation and Award Ceremony and a Brochure is being published on the occasion.

A Convocation marks the end of one phase of education and the start of another. The theoretical knowledge acquired till now must be applied practically to resolve the challenges facing the health sector. The experiments and lessons learnt in the laboratory will now have to be reoriented and applied to the much larger laboratory of life.

Our Government has taken various initiatives with the vision of 'Healthcare for All'. All those stepping out of the institution equipped with skills and knowledge must strive to ensure quality healthcare, particularly to the poor, needy and disadvantaged sections of the society. In the 21st century, technology and innovation are redefining every field of activity. One must train one's mind to think creatively and innovatively. Quality and affordable healthcare that results in good health and well-being of the people can be ensured with large-scale participation of all stakeholders.

May all those graduating bring pride and glory to the nation, their institution, teachers and themselves. My best wishes and greetings to all of them for a bright and successful future.

I wish the 20th Convocation and Award ceremony all success.
