GOVERNMENT OF INDIA

It gives me immense pleasure to extend my warm greetings on the occasion of the 23rd Convocation of the National Board of Examinations in Medical Sciences (NBEMS).

Over the years, NBEMS has played a pivotal role in strengthening postgraduate medical education in the country by upholding rigorous standards of training and assessment. Its extensive network of accredited hospitals has been instrumental in providing high-quality clinical training to postgraduate trainees, while also contributing to the delivery of accessible and affordable secondary and tertiary healthcare services, including in underserved and remote regions. NBEMS's sustained efforts in building a competent, skilled, and ethically grounded healthcare workforce are both significant and highly commendable.

The Convocation marks a moment of immense pride and achievement for the graduating doctors, signifying the successful culmination of years of dedication, perseverance, and hard work. As you step into the noble profession of medicine, you carry with you not only knowledge and technical expertise but also a profound responsibility to uphold the highest standards of ethics, compassion, integrity, and service to humanity. Your role in advancing patient care, promoting public health, and responding to emerging healthcare challenges will be crucial in shaping the future of our nation's healthcare system.

The Ministry of Health & Family Welfare remains committed to supporting NBEMS in advancing medical education and strengthening healthcare delivery. Their continued collaboration is vital to meet the nation's evolving healthcare needs and achieving equitable, accessible, quality healthcare for all.

I extend my heartfelt congratulations to all the successful doctors and wish them a bright, fulfilling, and impactful career ahead. I am confident that they will serve with dedication and distinction, and contribute meaningfully towards strengthening the healthcare system and improving the well-being of our citizens. I also extend my best wishes to NBEMS for its continued growth and success.
